CME credits for the Symposium 206 have been applied for at the European Union of Medical Specialists (UEMS) – European Board of Gastroenterology (EBG). The number of credits awarded will be printed in the final program.

Preface

The field of inflammatory bowel diseases is growing: we meet more patients; we discover more genes and interleukins; we develop new tests and drugs. Not long ago, general gastroenterologist took care of most IBD patients. Today, complex multidisciplinary units are doing the task in many centers around the world. IBD is becoming a vast and complex field.

We need new tools to deal with complexity, new tools helping us to discern what really matters. In understanding the key aspects of research we will improve our practice, the health of our patients and social welfare.

Symposia, organized by the Falk Foundation are one of these tools. They gather people who are passionate for IBD to share their knowledge: from basic science to socioeconomic analysis, from the newest interleukin to the oldest (but still useful) drug. This is the first magic concept: sharing. We meet to share ideas in a friendly environment. We share science, clinical experience and multinational proficiency. This collaboration will yield the second magic concept: learning. Most experts in these symposia are generous enough to share their knowledge with others. Nevertheless, and more importantly, they are eager for new ideas, open to learn from newcomers. We hope everybody will come back home after this meeting even more passionate about IBD and everything it involves: research, teaching, and, of course, the huge commitment that is caring for our patients.

On behalf of the scientific organizers

Dr. Fernando Gomollón, Zaragoza
